

On The Music Program

The program in the east court of the National Gallery of Art tonight will be given by Francis Tursi, violinist, assisted at the piano by Rosalie Gassel. It will be a sonata recital with a first local performance of Bliss' "Sonata in E Minor." The program will include further the Boccherini "Sonata in A Major" and Brahms' "Sonata in E Flat Major, Op. 120, No. 2."

A benefit concert for Greek War Orphans will be given in Pierce Hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon by Michel, the violinist and his Gypsy Ensemble consisting of Michel Weiner, violinist; Antonia (Toni) Charithas, accordionist; Marcel Ancher, cellist; and Edward Hargrave, pianist. Anthony West and Olga Sianis from the Anthony West Dance Studios will dance a tango, waltz and rumba and two cello solos by Mr. Ancher and a "Greek Medley" for accordion, played by Toni, will be features.

McCall Latham, vocal instructor of New York, will begin his 26th season in Washington on Tuesday at his studio in the Musical Art Center, 1325 G Street N.W. He will teach, by appointment, on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The Cathedral Choral Society will hold regular rehearsals in the St. Alban's Parish Hall, Wisconsin and Massachusetts avenues, beginning tomorrow night. Work has proceeded during the past month on the program to be presented in the Cathedral, November 25, under the direction of Paul Calloway. New members are invited to attend and auditions are held beginning at 7:30 p.m. preceding each Monday's rehearsal.

Icelandic Chorus To Perform Here

The Icelandic Chorus, directed by Sigurdur Thordarson, will make its local debut October 9 in Constitution Hall as the first concert of the C. C. C. Cappel series. This group of 36 male voices, well known in Europe before the war, is making its first tour of the United States and will sing a limited number of programs. Choral singing is highly developed in Iceland and among singers from Reykjavik are among the most renowned.

DODA CONRAD, Bassist, who will give memorial concert for the late Fanny Amstutz Roberts in the Phillips Gallery this afternoon and tomorrow night.

Doda Conrad, Bassist, To Sing Schubert at Phillips Gallery

Doda Conrad, noted bassist, will present the first known Washington performance of Schubert's "Die Winterreise" in its entirety in the Phillips Gallery at 5 o'clock this afternoon with a repeat performance tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in the Gallery.

The two concerts will be a memorial for Fanny Amstutz Roberts, late president of the Washington College of Music and a founder of the Washington Music Teachers' Association.

Mr. Conrad made his local debut some years ago when he sang with Nadia Boulanger's group of singers in the Library of Congress, the Sullivan and the Washington College of Music. Before the war he gave lieder recitals in the United States, in Europe and the Far East and two seasons ago was heard in a program in the Phillips Gallery with Paul Nordoff, composer-pianist, giving the same program later in Town Hall, New York. Of Polish birth, Mr. Conrad is a naturalized American citizen with enlisted and commissioned service in the United States Army. Assigned to the Allied Liaison Service in ETO, he was wounded in action when his jeep struck a land mine.

For Radio Listeners

By Bill Coyle

Radio officials are a little irked over the fact that Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery plans no radio talks while in this country as the special guest of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

What bothers the broadcasters is the fact that Gen. Montgomery has flatly refused to go on the air at all, thus leaving radio out in the cold during his entire visit. When asked recently if he would consent to a radio appearance before his visit is concluded, Gen. Montgomery remarked: "Radio is for the politicians—not for me."

Broadcasters feel slighted. A man of personality and wit, and a good speaker, it was felt that America's radio audience would have everything to gain, and "Monty" nothing to lose, if the field marshal consented to present a brief and informal message via the air waves.

Program notes: This week WRC-NBC offers the following new shows and old favorites returning after the summer lay-off. "Meet Me at Park's," tonight at 9:30; "Key Key's" College of Musical Knowledge," Wednesday, September 18, 9 p.m.; "The Alan Young Show" (premiere), Friday, September 20, 7:30 p.m.; "People Are Funny," Friday, 8 p.m.; "The New Bandwagon" with Alice Faye and Phil Harris (premiere), Sunday, 6:30 p.m.

WMAL-ABC will present the new Bing Crosby show October 16 with talent alone taking $30,000 of the program budget. Crosby will transcribe all programs in the series.

WOL-ABC is concluding plans for the eighth consecutive annual coverage of the World Series which will be aired beginning October 2. Sportscasters who will do play-by-play and color have not been announced but it probably will be Jim Britt and Mel Allen.

WRC-NBC announces the premiere of Dinah Shore's new half-hour variety program Wednesday, September 18, 8:30 p.m. First guest is Dinah's home star husband, George Montgomery. Music will be provided by Robert Emmet Dolan's orchestra.

Art Brown is coming back to Washington September 30 to take over his old 6-9:30 a.m. spot, on WOL, after a year of playing platters for WHN in New York City. It wasn't that Art wasn't doing all right in New York, but his Washington salary matter asked for another chance, and liking Washington, Art was a push-over to give in.

Art left WOL just a year ago after 11 years as the station's morning man. Aside from pattering between records Art throws in a goodly amount of his own electric organ playing, which is good.

Washington's first commercial frequency modulation station, WINX-FM, goes on the air this week. The station will offer a 14 hour and 15 minute schedule, signing on at 9 a.m. and signing-off at 11:15 p.m. daily.

For the most part the FM station will duplicate the programs now being heard over WINX. However, many WINX shows are being revamped to be more suitable for FM's broader frequency range and state-free reception.

WOL-ABC-FM goes on the air another milestone in Washington radio's history will be passed. The station's operation will bring about the first spirited drive for frequency modulation receiver sales. The station plans to co-operate with dealers in a merchandising campaign to increase the number of owners in the metropolitan Washington area, now believed to be about 4,000.

Station breaks. . . Carleton D. Smith, WRC general manager, will present an NBC Television program to the winner of the mayor's trophy race in this year's President's Cup Regatta. . . Earl Gammons, recently elevated to vice president in charge of CBS in Washington, is back at his desk after three weeks vacation. . . WTOP newsmen Joe Egan and Tommie Dorsey last week. Junior was in at 9:15 pounds. . . Bill Heron's new five-year contract with WRC for the Timekeeper program also provides for performances on NBC's local frequency modulation and television stations soon to be operating. . . Dale Morgan, WOL staffer, is being groomed to take over the directorship of special events for Mutual in Washington when Jack Egan leaves to become the network director. . . 8:15 a.m. Washington's headquarters in New York.

bodies of most people, might appear at any time. It might even be made in some laboratory as an instrument of biological warfare.
Moreover, it is stressed, research on polio is really research on the whole virus problem, now the most obscure in the whole field of medicine, with the possible exception of cancer. In fact, even cancer may be caused by some unknown virus, although this theory is not generally accepted.

No body knows how long polio has existed in the world. Historically, the first known victim probably was Sir Walter Scott. Although not diagnosed as such at the time, since the disease had not been identified, all Scott's symptoms point to infantile paralysis.

Several centuries before these authors, Richard III may have had polio. It is certain that he was somewhat deformed, but the general picture of him as a hunchback agrees with that of a man with a sufficiently powerful body to fight personally some of the most powerful warriors of his court. This, however, is pure speculation.

Whether or not a person has polio is very difficult to determine until the symptoms become fairly severe. There is no good diagnostic test. When a child becomes ill in the midst of a polio epidemic, a physician is on safe ground if he assumes this disease as a possibility. There are indifferently effective animal tests.

Seats Available
For Concert Series
The Snow Concert Bureau announces that there are orchestra and box seats still available for the Philadelphia Orchestra's series of five subscription concerts in Constitution Hall. The series will include an orchestral program opening the season October 22; Claudio Arrau, Chilean pianist, as soloist; November 26, Zino Francescatti, violinist as guest artist; January 28; William Kapell, pianist, soloist; March 4, and an orchestral program March 25. All subscribers who have reserved tickets are asked to call for them by September 30.
